Report of Inspector of Animals.

One general inspection of herds and barns was made during the 1912.

Total number of cattle found was 626; swine 392; sheep 14; There seems to be a steady falling off in the number of animals kept.

During the year 14 cows were quarantined on suspicion of having tuberculosis; 13 of these were condemned and killed.

I have examined and stamped 216 carcasses of pork; 1 of beef; and 2 of mutton: All of which were free from contagious diseases.

There have been brought into the town from other states during the year 218 cattle.

Respectfully submitted,

M. H. WILLIAMS,

Fire Warden's Report.

Seven forest fires have been extinguished the past year, only one of these started with people using permits, the other six started from unknown causes. Seven permits have been given during the year. The damage to our wood-lands from these fires was very light as the area burned over was small.

Chestnut tree blight works very slowly in our wood lands, no sign of gypsy or brown tail moth have been found.

Superintendent's Report.

TO SCHOOL COMMITTEE OF THE TOWN OF SUNDERLAND.

Gentlemen of the School Committee:

I herewith submit my fourth annual report of the Sunderland schools.

One of the features of our work of the past year, also mentioned in an earlier report, is to be found in the system of basal reading used in the first three grades. We are now able to judge how this system effects the upper grades as the present sixth grade was the first to use the Aldine method. Their work in reading does not reflect the burden of diacritical marks used in the preceding method nor inability to spell correctly which often results from the phonetic spelling of words, which was an evident fault of the Ward method. For the past three years over fifty percent. of the first grade have been children of foreign born parents, many of them entering school without even the ability to understand English, to say nothing of speaking English. A system of reading which can be adapted to these conditions and produce a first grade in June with no apparent difference in the reading ability of both foreign and native children, is, to say the least, an efficient system. Credit is also due the teachers as well as the system of reading in producing this result.

In following the plan of Superintendent Gray of Chicopee as outlined in his book "Member of Development" we are accomplishing good results in this subject in the lower grades. The work of the other grades is up to its usual high standard and next year I hope to make the work of the ninth grade still more practical by taking a course in Business Arithmetic for the first and second terms.

The most unsatisfactory subject to deal with in the whole curriculum is the language work of the intermediate grades. Modern educators have little or no use for technical grammar. This once formed an important part of all language study. There is a time in the lives of the pupils before which they are unable to comprehend the meaning of technical grammar, or in the words of the pedagogue there is a "conceptual limitation." This age varies, but is seldom reached before the eighth or ninth grade. It is a waste of time to teach technical grammar before this period is reached. The writers of text-books on this subject have realized this with the result that we have no definite plan that can be followed. The study of abbreviations, capitalization, sentence building and composition both oral and written form the basis for language study. The correct use of the language itself must result from dull exercises in the choice of words repetition of correct forms and constant correction on the part of the teacher in all subjects of the incorrect statements of the pupils.

The fourth and fifth grades have been supplied with the language course as followed in the Newton schools where the Aldine reading was developed. Language work in Newton is now the feature, and we trust that we have found help in the solution of this difficult problem.

We are introducing this winter a course in cooking. The Sunderland Women's Club, realizing the advantages to be derived, and interested in having our school progressive, have equipped a cooking room, with the understanding that the town furnish a supervisor and provisions to carry on the course. This is a very commendable step for this wide awake organization to take and should meet with the hearty co-operation of the town. In my report of last year I suggested such a course and mentioned some of its possibilities. Cooking is no longer an experimental subject for a school curriculum. In another town of the district a course in cooking has been in operation for some time with very gratifying results. Throughout the state courses have been successfully conducted in the larger cities and also in towns of Sunderland's population. Miss Field, of Leverett, who is well known in town because of her cooking instruction several years ago, has been engaged to supervise this work. It would be a practical aim for such a course to provide a lunch for the pupils who are transported and are obliged to carry lunches. This could be done at the expense of these pupils and would be a decided improvement over present conditions.

I hope that some arrangement can be made next year with a local concern to direct some form of manual training for the boys of the sixth and seventh grades. At the last annual meeting a committee was appointed to investigate the crowded condition of the school and report as to the feasibility or necessity of additional school accommodations. I have prepaid the following table to show existing conditions and to forecast as far as possible the enrolment of the separate rooms next year.

	Grades.	Sept. Enrol- ment.	Present Seating Capacity.	No. of Seats that can be added.	Total Possible Seating Capacity	Enr'lm't for 1913-14.
Mrs. Dill	8-9	19	19	5	24	20
Mrs. Phelps	6-7	27	29	5	34	34
Miss Crocker	4-5	44	44	0	44	37
Mrs. E. F. Smith	2-3	46	50	0	50	50
Mrs. G. B. Smith	1	35	34	10	44	not known.

A glance at the preceding tabulation will show that unless there is an addition of a number of pupils from other towns the present building will accommodate the pupils of the town for the next school year, 1913-1914. If we should find an unusually large first grade in September, 1913, it would then be two years before the second and third grade room would be too small to accommodate the pupils of those grades. The record of births for the year 1908 was 31; in 1909, 38. These children will be the first grades entering 1913 and 1914 respectively. Not taking into account such families as have moved to Sunderland in the interim, the present school building will be adequate for two or three years to more.

The State Board has issued during the past year a suggested course of study for the first six grades. These courses of study have been placed in the hands of the teachers and were reviewed at a teachers' meeting held in November. This course was compiled from the suggestions of superintendents and normal school teachers throughout the state, and includes English expression, covering reading, composition, language lessons, spelling and penmanship, general reading, arithmetic, geography, practical science, music, practical arts and drawing. The various courses have a wide range of material with a prescribed minimum requirement. The importance attached to domestic science and practical arts is significant.

Among the improvements for the coming year, allow me to suggest utilizing part of the present basement for a cooking room. There is unoccupied space enough on the northside of the basement to make a room 20 by 30 feet. This can be done by putting in a cement floor and building one partition about 30 feet long. Such a room is necessary for the ultimate success of the domestic science course recently introduced.

In conclusion I wish to call your attention to the supervisor's reports following and to the report of our medical inspector. Allow me also to again express my appreciation of the generous support and co-operation given by the teachers' committee, and citizens of the town.

Respectfully submitted,

CHESTER D. STILES, Supt.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF DRAWING.

Chester D. Stiles, Superintendent of Schools:

Dear Sir:

I wish to submit the following report.

A course in drawing from an outline adapted to local conditions, and consisting of work from still life objects intended to promote observation of form and color; work in design calculated to develop taste and originality; work in illustration, used in connection with other school subjects; and also mechanical drawing is given a place as part of the school program in all the grades.

In the primary grades, fifteen minutes daily, and in the grammar grades two forty-five-minute periods per week are given to this subject, the supervisor's visit falling twice each month.

Appreciation is due to the teachers of the Sunderland school who share the work of finding and making models for the children, and who among their other work, find time to take an interest in paper cutting or perspective.

Respectfully submitted,

D. MAUD BELLIS,

Supervisor of Drawing.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC.

CHESTER D. STILES, Superintendent of Schools,
South Deerfield, Mass.

Dear sir:

Any event which brings all the pupils of a school building together, fosters a school spirit which greatly aids in any line of work. With this fact in mind your supervisor of music has, in addition to her weekly visits, assisted in preparing music, during the last year, for three special occasions, the results fully repaying all extra time and effort expended.

For graduation in June a cantata was given by the eighth and ninth grades—for Memorial Day special music was provided by all the grades—and at Christmas time a miscellaneous program was given by all the grades, including appropriate music.

The regular work of the schools has gone along as usual; some of the grades having already completed the year's schedule. These extra programs could not have been accomplished had not the daily work received its full share of attention.

Respectfully submitted,

BELLE BULLIS,

Supervisor of Music.

Librarian's Report.

Number of volumes belonging to the library March, 1912 . . .	5,388
Added during the year	108
Discarded during the year	14
Belonging to the library at date	5,482
Number loaned during the year	7,587
Number in circulation at date	321

Again we can report our circulation larger than that of any previous year of our history. It is larger by 559 than that of last year when we went beyond that of any other year. It is larger by 2,634 than that of the average circulation for the past 25 years, and larger by 4,341 than that of 1888-89, when the lowest circulation during those years was reported. It may be of interest to recall the lowest circulation in our history, that of 1876-7 when it was only 661, which figures speak for themselves as to the benefit of a free library, for at that time a small fee was charged for the privilege of drawing books.

We have taken the following magazines: Harper's, Century, World's Work, Review of Reviews, St. Nicholas, American Boy, Scribner's, Outlook, Independent, Atlantic, Technical World, Garden Magazine, Forum, McClure's and New England. We expect to make a slight change in this list. Suggestions from patrons as to both magazines and books are always welcome.
